Description of the role of the Agriculture High School Teacher:

Teacher means a person employed permanently, temporarily or casually in a teaching position under the provisions of the Teaching Service Act 1980.

Teachers require a capacity to integrate technology in teaching and learning programs. Teachers are required to have highly developed communication and interpersonal skills and the capacity to work collaboratively with students, staff and parents. Teachers should have the ability to translate the understanding of the Quality Teaching Framework in outstanding classroom practice and knowledge of and commitment to the policies and approaches applicable to the individual school community, e.g. Aboriginal community, collaborative learning partnerships, gifted and talented, student welfare, girls and boys' education, the performing arts and vocational education.

Agricultural teachers teach students in the field of agricultural study, including animals, crops, machinery and equipment. They prepare school field projects, exhibits and agricultural demonstrations as part of the general school activities. Agricultural teachers utilise a combination of theory and practical based lessons.

This document indicates the average time spent across a working day on common work activities/physical work demands that have been identified as essential to the successful performance of the role. The frequency of performance of work tasks is described by either the Descriptor, Percentage of Time, or Amount of Time based on the average working day of 7 hours as follows:

Job Profile – Functional Summary For the Position of a High School Agriculture Teacher

Common Job Activities (used in conjunction with Workplace Specific Details)		Average Time	Critical Job Demand
1	Room/activity set-up Teachers are required to set up their classroom prior to each lesson. This is particularly necessary when teachers are conducting a practical demonstration or if students are participating in practical work in the agricultural farm. Depending on the subject being taught, this may require moving desks, chairs, projectors, computers and various farm equipment and materials. The School Learning Support Officer (SLSO) and/or students may assist with this process.	Varies	No, can be completed by students
2	Teaching of students Agriculture teachers are responsible for teaching students in the field of science and agriculture. Agriculture classes are taught 50/50 in a classroom environment encompassing theoretical material and in the outdoors in the school farm to cover the practical aspect of the course. Teaching may involve standing or seated presentation of information to students, monitoring verbal and non-verbal responses of students to information, providing answers to questions, supervision of group and individual learning activities and encouraging participation by students. Practical classes include supervising and instructing students in gardening, feeding animals and farm maintenance. Students are also taught to use small farm equipment and to operate a tractor.	Up to the equivalent of 28 x 40 minute periods per week, plus up to 3 periods for sport	Yes
3	Parent liaison Teachers may contact the parents of their students via telephone or face to face as required to discuss specific issues (e.g. student performance). General high school teachers participate in teacher parent interview nights throughout the year and some teachers may also be involved in subject information nights providing additional information as needed to both students and parents.	As required during non-teaching time and after school hours	Yes
4	Student supervision Generally high school teachers are required to participate in playground supervision sessions each week. This may include supervising students' morning recess and lunch breaks. Supervision can include the playground, gym, library and bus areas (depending on the school) and involves active supervision of a pre-determined area and completing visual and auditory monitoring of students' activities and school premises, providing assistance to students as required. In addition all teachers supervise one session of sport per week of up to 2 hours unless they negotiate to teach additional classes in lieu of sport.	Refer to Workplace Specific Details	Yes
5	School excursions and sporting visits Organising and supervising school excursions and sporting visits; supervision of small or large groups of students outside the school premises, conducting site tours of destinations, monitoring student completion of excursion-related learning activities, constant surveillance of surroundings to ensure student safety, training school sports teams, refereeing sporting games.	Varies according to school	Yes
6	Specified non-teaching time Planning lessons, completion of administrative paperwork, correction of students' work, reports, class preparation (e.g. photocopying, resource preparation) review of resources, purchasing of supplies, checking and responding to messages etc. It should be noted that teachers may also undertake these and other related tasks outside of the school's operating hours.	Refer to Workplace Specific Details	Yes
