Action Taken	Prosecution action against Jeyalucksumi Kulaweerasingam for: • two offences of providing education and care while a prohibition notice is in force – section 187(1)(a) of the Children (Education and Care Services) National Law (NSW); and • two offences of giving false information about the content or existence of a prohibition notice - section 188A of the Children (Education and Care Services) National Law (NSW).
Date of conviction	8 April 2026
Sentence	Convicted of all four offences in the Parramatta Local Court. Ms Kulaweerasingam was sentenced to a conditional release order under section 9(1)(a) of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 for 2 years for the section 187(1)(a) offences. Ms Kulaweerasingam was fined a total of $2250 for the offences under section 188A.

Proven offence:

On 13 November 2023, the Regulatory Authority issued a prohibition notice to Ms Kulaweerasingam (the "defendant") pursuant to section 182(1) of the Children (Education and Care Services) National Law (NSW).

During March and April 2024, the defendant denied the existence of the prohibition notice when seeking employment with two family day care services and in both instances, the defendant was successful in obtaining employment. During this period, in relation to her employment at the first service the defendant was caring for children on two dates for a number of hours. On each occasion she was caring for three and two children, respectively.

In relation to her employment at the second service, the defendant was engaged in the care of children over 10 days. On 8 of those occasions the defendant was caring for children for effectively a full day. Between 2 and 6 children were cared for on any given occasion.
